Maryland Nurse Cynthia Wright-Johnson, RN, MSN, Recognized by the Emergency Nurses Association (ENA) with National Award

The Emergency Nurses Association (ENA) announce that they have recognized Cynthia Wright-Johnson, RN, MSN, program director for Emergency Medical Services for Children programs at the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services (MIEMSS), as the recipient of the Barbara Foley Injury Prevention Leadership Award. The national award was presented by the Emergency Nurses Association (ENA) at its annual conference October 8, 2009 in Baltimore.

The Foley Award honors an active ENA Injury Prevention Institute/ENCARE volunteer, who, within the past year, as served as a leader in the development and promotion of injury prevention programs at the national, state, and local level.

“ENA is proud of the outstanding accomplishments of its members,” stated William T. Briggs, RN, MSN, CEN, FAEN, 2009 ENA President. “Cynthia Wright-Johnson represents the excellence and dedication of the nation’s emergency nurses to quality patient care.”

ENA is the only professional nursing association dedicated to defining the future of emergency nursing and care through advocacy, expertise, innovation, and leadership. Founded in 1970, ENA serves as the voice of more than 37,000 members and their patients.
